[LE Agency] Displays Car of Family Killed in Drunken Driving Crash

The [name of law enforcement agency] is hosting a display created from the destroyed car of a North Dakota family killed in an alcohol-related crash.

The display is intended to give drivers a first-hand look at the tragic result of drunken driving. It will be available for viewing by [the public or specific group] from [time] on [date] at [location/event].

Aaron and Allison Deutscher, their 18-month-old daughter, Brielle, and an unborn child were killed July 6, 2012, just west of Jamestown on Interstate 94. The drunken driver who was heading the wrong way on I-94 at the time was also killed in the crash.

Relatives of the family donated the family's wrecked car for educational purposes. In addition to the car, photos and information on the family and their lives help tell the story of the preventable tragedy.

Law enforcement agencies across North Dakota and Northwestern Minnesota are able to reserve the display for appropriate events in their service regions. The display was made possible by a donation from AAA clubs in North Dakota and Minnesota.

For more information on the Deutscher family and the display, please visit www.deadlycrash.org.
